Edmonton Regiment Pleased With Conferring of Title "Loyal" by Queen Elizabeth

heavy bombers at night time, we touched wood before going to bed. We figured if we did that, we wouldn't be touched."

Lord Hawhaw pulled a "fast one" on the famous Edmonton unit on Sept. 13, 1940. We were at dinner that night when Lord Hawhaw came on the air. He called to the Canadians and stated that he was in the air, asking what was wrong with the big clock in the camp.

WANTS TO KNOW
"Who does that clock lose five minutes every day?" Lord Hawhaw teased the Canadians. "Within 24 hours I propose to send some technicians to fix your timepiece."

The following day at 2:30 in the afternoon, the Germans came, Sgt. Sheppard said. They came in 185 bombers, and laid waste to the whole Borden area.

When the raid was over, 42 children had been killed in a shelter. There were orphans, children whose parents had been killed in earlier attacks.

The Canadians nearly left their bomb shelters, and started digging in the rubble of the orphanage, trying to find survivors, said Sgt. Sheppard, describing the scene. The civilian casualties were heavy, 40 men and women, and orphans.

LANDED EARLY
One of the first Canadians to land in England after the war, Sgt. Sheppard, a corporal then, arrived with a party of 44 officers and men, in December 1945. In the party were Maj. Gen. G. Peck, D.S.O., D.C., and Maj. Gen. W. J. A. Keller, of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and others.

The party's duty was to prepare for the coming of the Canadians. Sgt. Sheppard's group, he said, was to find billets in the Aldershot area for their comrades still in Canada.

The Edmonton Regiment, as it was known then, arrived in England Dec. 30, 1939. Lt. Col. W. G. Sullivan, now attached in Canadian military headquarters in London, was in command when the unit arrived overseas.

Fifty women and children in London over their lives to Sgt. Sheppard.

One night, around Christmas time, I was in a theatre in the Shoreditch area, in London. Bombs were so loud we couldn't hear the pictures.

The manager came out on the stage, and asked us if we'd like to go and take cover in shelters. He was going to say something else, but two fire-bombs crashed into the balcony over me.

The balcony burst into flames. The manager, still on the stage, advised us to get out of the theatre, and to help keep order. I noticed the theatre had an orchestra pit; it was an old building. I hustled 50 women and children who were near me, into that pit. They were saved.

"There were 2,500 persons in the theatre when the fire broke out, and the pictures two days later said 1,500 had been killed, and more were not accounted for."

That was at eight o'clock at night. Safely out of the blazing theatre, Sgt. Sheppard started his bail-out three-quarters of a mile away. It took him from 8 p.m. until 4:30 a.m.

Crete may be next of the Mediterranean steppingstone islands to be hit by Allied invasion, for the usual curtain-raiser bombings have hit many of her military installations, harbors and airfields. This is the island that guards approaches to the Aegean Sea and Greece.

More Atrocities By Nazis Claimed

MOSCOW, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Tass published a lengthy statement yesterday reporting numerous instances of atrocities by Germans in Russian territory occupied by the German army.

The statement, which Tass said was issued by an extraordinary state committee for the investigation of the town's 218 inhabitants, said the findings had been established from statements of victims, witnesses and medical experts.

Another narrow escape from German high explosive came to the end of a London Christmas leave. The Canadians were at Waterloo station, to take the 8:45 train back to camp. There was a water-fall, as a train two hours away was hit by a bomb after the German had done down, all trains pulled out of the station in absolute darkness. There were no lights in the cars, nor front or back of the trains.

Sgt. Sheppard came back in Canada with a record party for 2,500 German prisoners of war, the Tunisian captives. Prisoners would not believe Mussolini had resigned. A number of prisoners that came across were from 16 to 24 years old, and numbers of them were the Iron Cross. All were in good health.

One young lad in the party showed a document to guards which describes his call-up to the German army. Two Germans had been granted him, but finally a notice came to him which said if he did not join the army within 48 hours his mother and father would be sent to a concentration camp.

Sgt. Sheppard, whose home is at 1012 195 street, was the first soldier of the Edmonton Regiment to marry after war was over. He was married on Nov. 2, 1939 and left for overseas the following week. In the war of 1914-1918, he served for two and a half years with the Royal and Canadian Highlanders.

Two sons-in-law, P.M. James and Sgt. H. Hallgren, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, are in active service overseas, and Sgt. H. Hallgren, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, are in active service overseas, and Sgt. H. Hallgren, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, are in active service overseas.

ENO is wearing the King's uniform. He was really vexed at not being sent to Sicily with the regiment. He's doing such a grand job of instructing on Aldershot battle course, they wouldn't let him go. Sgt. Hallgren is believed to be in Sicily, as Pte. Clark, Sgt. Clark is at present home on leave in the city.

Sgt. Sheppard missed going to Sicily because of his medical certificate, he would let him go on those jobs, he said. "Category B" men stay in England doing clerical and other duties, and "C" men are being sent back to Canada, where they can get a discharge if they wish.

"Me get one? Not on your life! I'm finally in uniform until the war's won."

Resistance Ends Yanks Occupy Base at Munda

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Allied Japanese resistance at Munda has ceased, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Grain evidence of the bitter campaign to wrest the key base from the enemy, a total of 1,671 Japanese dead were counted. There was no immediate announcement as to Allied casualties.

Activity of the American troops now is limited to mopping-up operations.

A special communique said: "Munda is now in our hands. All organized enemy resistance has ceased. A large number of Japanese soldiers are being taken into custody. Destruction of isolated enemy groups, 1,671 enemy dead have already been collected."

An eyewitness account by J. Norman Lowell, Associated Press correspondent, written from Munda, Aug. 4, indicated strongly that the Japanese were in a state of panic. The Japanese were in a state of panic. The Japanese were in a state of panic.

"War Will Last Three Weeks to Three Months"

escaped Caucasus Mountains range to the east. I stood in the passage-way, and prayed fervently that it would keep on rattling ahead until it reached Moscow. But there were many stops to be made.

At station after station we halted to take water and provisions. Most of them were rugged, browned little fellows, mountaineers clutching a rifle in one hand, and a broad-brimmed hat in the other. They went to work with a grin, waving back at the little clusters of families who had come to bid them farewell. Behind them, at the village stations, musicians sat on the dirt pails, playing accordion. From the towns they went off to the lines, and martial music, blared from loud-speakers, over the wooden platform corners. Everywhere they met cheerfully.

In the purple nightfall the train began to pick up speed as it passed the forest of tall, thin spruces, and the Black Sea beaches, already surrounded by barbed wire, and patrolled by armed men, swished mysteriously. It was time to go to bed.

SIX ROOMMATES

I walked down the passageway, and there were my six roommates, sitting on the wooden benches. They were waiting for me.

"You go there," said one of the middle-aged men, pointing to the upper left bunk. I climbed into it, took off my outer clothes, slipped under the blanket and pulled close to the wall, facing it and wondering how many more would be in this place, hardly big enough for one.

There were thrashings and bunnings and snoring. I closed my eyes and then the lights went out. I was still alone in the dark.

A hand tapped my shoulder. It was the same middle-aged man. "You will be alone," he said. I pulled over and saw through the gloom that he was getting into one lower bunk with his wife and two other people had taken the second lower bunk. The two young men were in the upper, opposite bunk.

"That's democracy," the middle-aged man said from his bed.

RUSH FROM TRAIN

At the first stop the next morning there was a rush from the train. Being an abashed novice, I waited until the others had left, and then, and then I stepped out.

The morning was gathered around a fortunate one who had found a morning newspaper. He was reading the communiqué of June 22.

Directions of Russia, Ukraine, Volokov, Kirovsk, Vladimir, and the others, were being read. In the Belostok and Brest directions the Germans seemed to be capturing the cities of Brest, Volokov, and Lomja.

Believe Berlin
"Due For Heavy
R.A.F. Blasting"

LONDON, Aug. 6.—(C.P.)—A strong indication that Berlin shortly is due for a crash-bombing by R.A.F. bombers came yesterday from an R.A.F. commentator.

"Berlin must be watching the shrinkage of daylight with some concern," he said, adding that Berlin's capital was considered an important target because it was the seat of government and a great industrial center.

Important target. It also is a very important target from the standpoint of morale. Berlin is a lot to Germany. There always has been a certain amount of belief whenever Berlin was hit. The German people have made a tremendous mistake about Berliners themselves, however, have not moved as much when the Ruhr has been raided.

The commentator described the American plan for the installation of installations at Ploesti as "one of the greatest air achievements of the war."

The commentator, who represents the views of the R.A.F. and determination shown by the R.A.F. against the German plan for the 2,400-mile route for a low-level attack on the installations last Sunday against the German plan of opposition described risk with any feat accomplished in the air.

He added that estimates of the damage to the installations were not yet available but preliminary reports showed they had been done a "very hard" by the R.A.F. and that the German plan of opposition described risk with any feat accomplished in the air.

Left Fingerprints
NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Through the first fingerprint introduced in a major Nassau criminal case, a United States detective attempted yesterday to prove that Alfred de Marigny, an alleged hoodlum, was the father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes, the night the wealthy mining magnate was clubbed and burned to death.

Detective Frank Connor, of the New York City criminal identification department, asserted that a fingerprint found on a paper-covered wooden screen near Sir Harry's bed was that of the handsome, bearded de Marigny.

Connor, the only witness at an abbreviated session of a preliminary hearing for the de Marigny murder, said he had identified the fingerprint as that of the alleged father-in-law.

Magistrate P. E. Debono, who is hearing the case until Tuesday, said:

"I find that the fingerprint found on the wooden screen is that of the defendant, Alfred de Marigny, and that it was taken from the defendant's finger on the night of the murder of Sir Harry Oakes."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Americans have been buying soap this year faster than it has been produced, according to new government statistics, the agriculture department said yesterday.

The department said purchases have been at the rate of 1,822,000 pounds a year, or 30 per cent of the 1940 average use. Manufacturers are waterlogged under the new restrictions, the agriculture department said yesterday.

RUMOR of a possible switch of the Sacramento team of the Pacific Coast League to Spokane and the wails coming from other clubs in organized ball, not even excepting some in the majors, serve as a reminder that the local senior ball pool is in an enviable position so far as fan backing is concerned.

The Edmonton circuit, nobody likes to watch a team every day. Spokane's experience in the Western International was more or less a happy one, but the proposed adoption of the Sacramento team appears doomed from the start. The venture of Spokane in pro hockey it will be recalled started out very badly, but the last season it operated the team wound up the regular schedule on top and finished the season rather disastrously, with strike fines, refusal to return home for playoff games, etc., the final result.

SENIOR BALL SATURDAY
YESTERDAY'S rain put the Indian sign on all local sport activities, with postponements, resulting in senior ball, football, tennis and evening drive in lane bowling.

The "twilight doublets" final event of the Alberta Lawn Bowling Association's tournament will proceed tonight as originally planned. The Dodgers and Yanks will play at Renfrew on Saturday night and incidentally there are only four games still remaining on the regular league schedule.

Tommy Brant and Lefty Johnston are expected to be the plinking choices for tonight's game. The Yank chucker has a pair of wins in the "without" trophy, while Tommy has drawn a blank so far despite at least three very fine performances. Under the "with" averages the older chucker holds the edge for Saturday.

At Least 10 Pitchers Should Win 20 Games

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The major leagues may be able to boast of 10 or 10-20 winning pitchers this year compared to only four in 1942. Where only Mort Cooper, Johnny Beazley, Ernie Bonham and Tex Hughson were able to make the grade a year ago, five twirlers already exceed certain of reaching the coveted 20-game goal with 10 others having better than an even chance.

Topped of course by the veteran 35-year-old Red Sox pitcher, who has won 19 games in 1943, is the only American League claimant of the five victories actually carried over from winning 20 games.

Second on the list and tied with 18 wins is the 34-year-old Red Sox pitcher, who has won 18 games in 1943, is the only American League claimant of the five victories actually carried over from winning 20 games.

Bill Ober was traded by the Brooklyn Dodgers last season to an end yesterday—because Dolph, himself, realizes he's "washed up."

He's been thinking of quitting for a year, he said, and came back only this season because Branch Rickey, the Brooklyn boss, talked him into it. He said he was not definitely about a month ago when he was all through but decided he would take one last fling on the Dodgers'—just concluded—western swing to see if there might be a switch for the better.

Wits, Scientists Seek Educated Folk

Children Should Be Made to Realize Now That Course To Top Is Through Schoolroom: Life's Success Depends on Education

It is a great pity that children cannot be made to realize that education is not only the weapon with which they must fight the battle of life, but an unending source of pleasure and entertainment, and that their success and happiness will largely depend upon how good a one they have gotten. Of course, some youngsters do appreciate this and are so aware of learning that they are willing to work their way through college by doing any sort of manual labor, but the great majority of children regard going to school as some sort of cruel and inhuman punishment that their parents and teachers devise for taking the joy out of existence for them.

SCHOOL JUST DREGGIER

To those schools are places of incarceration in which they are shut up, so many boys and girls, when they might be playing ball or riding bicycles, or doing something else interesting and amusing. They enter the school building with dragging feet and escape from it with about the same interest in their studies and never even try to find out what their instructors are trying to teach them. They study just as they can in order to get by in their grades. And when they have finally been ground through the school system, they are out just as innocent of an education as they were when they went in. They have been exposed to culture, but they never caught it. They are like the proverbial man who reason Mary Jones is a highly paid private secretary because she is a college graduate who knows how to get and has a large vocabulary, while the most that Billy Smith can get is a 50 a week for addressing envelopes, because she can't spell and can't write an idea of what any word of more than one syllable means. Later on, when these children are men and women who find themselves balked at every turn by lack of education, they realize that they threw away their chance in life when they slammed the school door behind them. But it is too late then. The mischief is done. None of us, alas, can go back and correct the mistakes we made in our youth.

Aside from the fact that the lack of an education is a handicap in every line of work, it is the greatest bar to a full and happy life. The ignorant are doomed to dwell in an arid and stony desert in which there are few things in interest, and amuse them, and in which they are surrounded by other people who are as dull and stupid as they are. DOORS OPENED TO ALL AGES But the man who can say to himself, "My mind to me a kingdom" is the heir to all the ages and the possessor of all the treasures that the centuries have given before him, have left for his enjoyment. He can be as young as the ignorant cannot be. He can hear music in what they are deaf. He can wander forever through the green pastures and the flowering fields of imagination. And if education did nothing else for us but enable us to read and understand, it would be the greatest blessing that is ever bestowed upon us. For the readers are never bored. They are never lonely. Time never drowses on their hands. They have an interest in the world around them and in the company of the intelligent. The great wit at their table. Philosophers teach them wisdom. They fight and dare and thrill with the great adventures. And their hearts grow tender with the love of the world under the roses. For a book can turn a garret into a palace and escape the most tormented of the world into a great love.

So wonderful and manifold are the advantages of an education that a pity it is that we cannot sell it for less than it is worth having to children. Rambler Roses To Trail on Linens By ALICE BROOKS

Jealous Wife, 32, Kills Girl Rival

With Acid Burns

A 32-year-old woman, confined to her bed because it was young than mine and the acid burns killed the girl, Police Chief Dudley E. MacFarlane reported last night.

The chief said the woman was Mrs. Rhea Seacra, wife of a Mohit business man. The girl was Silvia Morgan, an employee at Brookfield.

Mrs. Seacra made a long confession, Chief MacFarlane said. She said she knew her husband had been "daring" Mrs. Morgan, that the three met to talk over their plans.

Mrs. Seacra related, she pulled a bottle of acid from her purse, poured it on Silvia Morgan and her husband.
